In this anthology, the authors address a wide range of topics: race, gender, class, sexual orientation, globalism, migration, health, politics, culture, and urban issues – from a diversity of disciplinary perspectives. Paul Attewell Jr., David Lavin, Thruston Domina, and Tania Levey examine the black middle class at the turn of the millennium. Todd C. Shaw considers how race shapes patriotism in the wake of September 11 attacks. Robert A. Brown focuses on the growing chasm between blacks and whites with regard to views of government's obligation to address citizen's basic needs. H. Alexander Welcome details instances where white scholars have improperly analysed black experiences. Antonio Pastrana revisits Du Bois's theories about the problems facing blacks. Joy James shows that the United States possesses the means and wealth to record and preserve (or censor) its slave/penal discourse as part of its vast warehouse of (neo)slave narratives.

Ajuan Maria Mance hypothesizes that African-American literature will become less consumed with exploration and documentation of interracial differences, and more concerned with the relationships within ethnic groups. Rosamond S. King explores literary embodiments of the increasing prevalence of interracial relationships. Anthony J. Lemelle and Barbara M. Scott present a comparative historical policy analysis of the HIV/AIDS experience among African Americans. Sandra L. Barnes examines sociological promises and problems of the contemporary black church. Jan Battle and Natalie D. A. Bennet scrutinize the experiences of African American gays and lesbians in the context of the larger community. Verna M. Keith and Diane R. Brown assess the state of African American health in the context of social group structures. Michael Bennett looks at the problems and opportunities facing black Americans from the perspective of urban studies.
